NEW H-P STORE OPENS TOMORROW

Ed Stemple, manager of the local H-P Store, says everything is in readiness for the formal opening of their new store tomorrow morning at 9:00 o'clock. The new store is everything the term implies—completely new, including the building.

Several months ago the stock of the old H-P Store was moved from the old Golden Building at the corner of Main Street and Second avenue, to the Thomas building on Main street. Contractors then moved in and tore down the old Golden building which had been a sort of a landmark in Marlinton for many years. However, on the same spot they built a new Golden building which is also golden in color, inside and out.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Overholt, who built the new building for the H-P Stores, Inc., said they preferred that the structure be known as the New Golden Building.

Visitors to the new store will be amazed at the light, bright storeroom with its fluorescent lighting, attractive displays of merchandise and cheerful music which is piped to all parts of the store. It is, without doubt, one of the most attractive stores in the Greenbrier Valley.

Area Supervisor John Wolf told the Marlinton Rotary Club at their Monday meeting, that the Marlinton H-P Store was one of their best and stressed the fact that their organization was very promotion minded and believed strongly in the power of advertising to move merchandise quickly and thus keep prices as low as possible.

Stemple was helped in the preparation of the new store by Mr.

Wolf and Supervisor Pete Friddle. They plan to remain here until after the opening tomorrow.

Manager Stemple says that they will have souvenirs for everybody and that there will be a number of bargains for the opening that came in too late to be included in their advertisement to be found elsewhere in this paper.

Governor Will Take Part In "Pocahontas Beautiful" Program

Governor Underwood's office telephoned your editor Wednesday and said that, since the Marlinton bridge was not completed and the weather rather unpredictable that the dedication ceremonies for the bridge and street were being postponed until sometime in April or May. Rather than hold up the use of the bridge the contractor will open it for public use as soon as possible so that he, the contractor, can tear down the temporary wooden bridge.

The caller inquired about the annual spring clean-up campaign. We had here and your editor explained that the program had grown to include the entire county in a big "Pocahontas Beautiful" program. Your editor asked if the Governor would be interested in making the dedication a part of this affair and the answer was "yes, if arrangements can be made".

of a new substation. Lough's Addition of the Monongahela Power company with plans to increase voltage capacity with the new Radio Laboratory at Green Bend will provide increased industrial and residential service in Pocahontas.

A total of $1,215,000 for the expansion will provide for a new substation up the valley to Elkinsville, Valley Bend and Cheat Mountain. A smaller substation at Green Bend and Green Bend of the expansion. Currently being served by a 12,000 volt line out of Marlinton. When the new 66,000 volt line is completely installed, the power supply from Elkins will go direct over Cheat Mountain to Green Bank.

A 66,000 volt line is now serving the entire Elkins and Valley Head area. This is supplied by substations at Albright, Rivesville and Willow Island.

Some 50 or 60 extra workers have been employed by the power firm in its expansion program which began a few months ago. The substation in Lough's Addition is now 30 percent complete.

By early spring the Monongahela Power hopes to convert to 132,000 volt system which will serve Elkins and adjacent areas.

The rapid increase in electric homes including electric hot water heaters, electric ranges and other electrical appliances has created demands for electric service, said H. L. McMurry, District Manager.

The additional lines and transformational areas with the increase in commercial electrical loads will improve the service for this area.

The huge transformer Lough's Addition arrived in Elkins for the $1,215,000 expansion local division to service to this area.

BRIGHT AND SHINY NEW

Here is pictured the new Golden building housing The H-P store in Marlinton, the day before the Grand Opening sale started. As can be seen in the picture, the modern front has an overhang that will protect window shoppers during inclement weather. The building is veneered with a buff colored brick and makes a very attractive addition to the business section of "The Prettiest Town in West Virginia."

The big smiles shown in the picture on the right depict how the regular help of the H-P Store feel about "their" new store. Your editor caught this group just before the crowds started jamming the store for the big Grand Opening Sale. Of course they had nearly a dozen extra helpers for the sale but these four are the "regulars". Left to right they are Ed Stemple, manager; Kyle Friel, clerk; Mrs. Louise Beard, clerk; and Mrs. Delphia King, clerk.

In Partisan Maneuvering

If the people had looked forward with high hopes to constructive legislative action at this session, they are doomed to disappointment.

With adjournment scheduled for February 11, it is evident that nothing of any consequence is going to be done toward solving the state's economic problems.

As in 1958 and 1959, the Democratic majority has shown far more interest in putting road blocks in the path of a Republican governor than in taking constructive action to meet West Virginia's needs.

The current session has seen a new low in petty partisan maneuvering, and the failure can be laid at the doorstep of the Democratic majority which has exercised every trick in the book to scuttle the program advanced by Gov. Underwood.

And in killing the Underwood program without advancing a program that would accomplish the same ends, Democrats in the Legislature have, in effect, turned their backs on West Virginia's problems. They have shown no real concern for the plight of the jobless worker, and less concern for the state's future.

The Underwood program was sound, simple and workable. It called for no new agencies, no red tape, no lengthy delays. It would have created some 4,000 jobs this year for those out of work, and at the same time it would have produced many public facilities that would have added immeasurably to the wealth of the state. Every county would have benefitted.

The plain fact is, as legislative observers are quick to point out, the Democratic majority sabotaged the governor's program for purely partisan reasons. They had no intention of permitting a Republican governor to gain any credit for solving West Virginia's problems.

Never in the state's history, perhaps, has a legislative majority shown such wanton disregard for the public interest.

As things stand now, the 54th Democratic Legislature is under indictment in the public mind for irresponsible action, for neglect of duty, for calloused unconcern for the man without a job, for blind partisan obstructionism, and for wilful disregard of the public welfare and the future of West Virginia.

It is a sad commentary indeed on the leadership of the Dem

Mrs. Leeta B. Killingsworth Is 1960 "Teacher Of The Year"

Mrs. Leeta B. Killingsworth,* teacher of Home Economics in Marlinton High School, has been named "Teacher of the Year" in Pocahontas County. Sponsored by the Marlinton Woman's Club, the selection was made by a committee representative of all areas of the county, as part of the General Federation of Women's Clubs "Oscars for Teachers" Awards Program.

It was the opinion of the committee that Mrs. Killingsworth is truly representative of the entire county. She was born at Hillsboro daughter of the late Matthew Lee and Emma Clark Beard and 32 of the 33 years she has taught have been divided between Green Bank and Marlinton High Schools.

The county has, to a great extent, been Mrs. Killingsworth's community. Scarcely a summer went by that she did not help with the Pocahontas County Fair, serving as department head, judge of exhibits, or assisting with pageants, such as "The Saga of Pocahontas" and other home-talent programs. She has also served various communities in the county by presenting club programs and demonstrations in the field ing handicraft classes. Her influence on the girls who have passed through her classes has been widespread. It would be impossible to evaluate the high standards of homemaking resulting in better communities that may have come about through her teaching and influence.

Mrs. Killingsworth received her Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics from West Virginia University in 1927, and has done graduate work there and at Purdue University, in Lafayette, Indiana. She is a member of the County, State and National Education Associations, and of the American Home Economics Association and American Vocational Association. She has served on several statewide home economics committees, and attended the national meeting of the American Home Economics Association in Washington, D. C. a few years ago.

As a classroom teacher, Mrs. Killingsworth exemplifies the highest standards. Mutual enjoyment, and at the same time complete understanding of the pupil-teacher relationship would brief-with her pupils. In the classroom she considers the girls as individuals, rather than as a group, and works with this in mind. This interest in the girls carries over to life outside the classroom, and makes Mrs. Killingsworth a friend as well as a teacher. Her classes are interesting, conducted efficiently in an attractive, pleasant working environment. She keeps well-informed on the newest ideas and methods and makes them available to her students. Above all, by presenting a poised, well-groomed, attractive appearance, she sets a good example for her students.

Miss Pauline Stout, State Supervisor of Home Economics Education, says of Mrs. Killingsworth, "Only home economics teachers who exemplify high standards of teaching are selected as supervising teachers. Concord College has been sending home economics student teachers to Mrs. Killingsworth at Marlinton for several years. Here they receive their inservice teaching experience. We believe that the community recognizes and accepts values of the homemaking department in this school. This is another criteria for selecting these training centers for home economics teachers".

Outstanding among Mrs. Killingsworth's former students is, Mrs. Harlan P. Carter III, of Elm Grove. As the former Jeanne Sheets of Green Bank. Mrs. Carter had her first courses in home economics to Mrs. Killingsworth, and went on to achieve a national vice-presidency in Future Homemakers of America, a highly superior record at West Virginia University, a career as Home Demonstration Agent, and finally her present title of "Mrs. West Virginia!"

Working with the West Virginia Association Future Homemakers of America has been one of Mrs. Killingsworth's fine contributions. Her chapter at Marlinton numbers about one hundred girls, well-trained in parliamentary procedure, and with the of their o she spon Miss Mar who was Associati Mrs. Kill orary m Future She is of the Farmer ledgem taken In h becam Grove Hillsb

Sectional Basketball Tournament To Begin Friday At Hillsboro

The Sectional basketball tournament of Section 17 will be held, as usual, in McNeel Gymnasium at Hillsboro on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. Also as usual, the three-team contest will be a tossup. Tournament Director Charles Moore announces that new bleachers have been added in the gym and no spectators will be allowed on the floor as in the past.

On Friday night at 8:00 o'clock the Marlinton Copperheads tangle with the Hillsboro Red Devils. On the basis of their regular season record the MHS quint should be ruled the favorite but the Hillsboro team has the advantage of their home floor and a never-say-die spirit. Marlinton trounced Hillsboro twice during regular season play.

On Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock the Green Bank Golden Eagles will take on the winner of the previous nights' fray. During the regular season the Green Bank Golden Eagles beat Hillsboro twice and broke even with Marlinton. This being so, the outcome of this tournament will determine the mythical county championship.

Marlinton has the distinction of being the champion of the Greenbrier Valley Conference after travelling to Rainelle last Saturday night to top the Southern division champs, Alderson, by a skin-of-their-teeth score of 59-58.

Marlinton Wins Sectional; Meets Sandstone Friday At Rainelle

Marlinton High School kept going at full speed last weekend to add the Section 17 championship to their basketball laurels. The Farmer-boys had previously won the crown in the Greenbrier Valley Conference.

On Friday night the Copperheads whipped the Hillsboro Red Devils by 19 points, 50-31, in the semi-finals of the Section 17A tournament played in McNeel Gym, the home floor for H. H. S. On Saturday night the M. H. S. quint showed no partiality and downed the Green Bank Golden Eagles, also by 19 points, 66-47. With a 20-2 mark this victory set an all-time high in the win column for Marlinton basketball teams. The previous high was set by the 1936 team which won 19 and lost three.

Next Friday night the Marlinton team will journey once again to the new Rainelle gym where they recently beat Alderson to win the Greenbrier Valley Conference title. This time they will be in the Region 5A tourney and will meet Sandstone at 7:00 p. m. If the local lads survive this test they will meet the winner of the White Sulphur Springs-Rainelle game for the Area championship on Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock.

Red Cross To Make Money Drive In March

March is the official month for the annual Red Cross Drive and the theme for the 1960 campaign is "Good things happen when you give." The desire of people to give neighborly help is exemplified through the Red Cross and its service programs, which are aimed at making communities and the world better places in which to live. The support for this program comes entirely from voluntary contributions—in time and talent from some two million volunteers and in funds from the American public.

Saturday morning, February 27, I got stuck on Cheat Mt. on ice and snow. About 15 minutes after I got stuck, a state road truck No ED-30-668 came up the mountain. He wouldn't stop, and I thought he probably figured on going on up to the top and stopping to help me on his way back down. About half an hour later a Virginia car came down the mountain and stopped and asked if he could help. He said the truck was parked on top the mountain. Two hours later I saw the truck coming and blinked my lights and tried to stop him (I was on the left side of the road) but he went right on. I backed over two miles down the mountain to where I could turn around and went to the state

Why Does Marlinton Need A Liquor Store?

(An Editorial)

As you probably know, the Mayor and Town Council of Marlinton have decided to conduct a public opinion poll to find out if the citizens of Marlinton want a liquor store. This poll, called a "Municipal Election", is not legally binding on anyone. If the voters say they want a liquor store it is still up to the State Liquor Commission to decide if they want to put a store in. If the voters say "no" at this plebiscite the "likker" interests can still work on the petition they have been circulating for some time with little success. If and when such a petition is properly filled and filed then, and only then, is the Mayor and Council required to hold such an election.

Please don't get me wrong. I am against a liquor store in Marlinton but I am not against the election. A dozen elections a year would not resolve the differences between those that want their liquor handy and those that think the further away it is the better off the town will be. But the people of Marlinton, regardless of their feelings, have the right to determine which faction has the majority of votes. Luckily we still have that privilege in this country.

Since I have stated my position it behooves me to try to justify it. Especially since I hope a lot of other Marlinton citizens will agree with me and go to the polls and vote against the store.

First of all let me try to list the arguments "for" the store that I have heard:

—The opening of a liquor store in Marlinton will stop the bootlegging.

—A liquor store here will bring the Town treasury a much needed $5,000 to $6,000 in annual revenue.

—A legal liquor store would also give employment to two or three family breadwinners.

—A liquor store in Marlinton would bring business to the other stores that has been going to the towns that furnish the liquor.

Now in my feeble way I'll try to show any fair-minded person why these various arguments are false.

Anyone remembering when Marlinton had a liquor store will remember that there were also bootleggers. One man who used

Does Marlinton Need . . .

Those with the long memories can also bring to mind the fights and rowdyism that was an every weekend occurrence. Some of the time the Town had three policemen on the payroll. Now the wets claim that these fights were caused by recently returning veterans who had nothing else to do. However I can remember many a time our Main Street served as the arena for bloody brawls even before the war.

As an example of how a liquor store helps a town by making it easy to get the stuff I'd like to point to a community where there is not only a liquor store but five "clubs" where liquor is sold over the bar. Besides these convenient outlets the town has the personal purveyors that Marlinton is supposed to get rid of when the store goes in. And on the Main Street of that town I

On the second of the store it seems to expect a liquor store to sell $250,000 to the town of booze to leave as the Town's the rest?

No doubt two would be employed in a liquor store. It would be employment to help out the town and help out the Peace.

If a liquor store is a boon to a hard town why isn't Cass community? If the town complains about the liquor stores do more on their stores at the time they would on a liquor store reason do they have the money and the

And on the Main Street of that town I saw, a few months ago, one of the town's three policemen beat a man into unconsciousness to stop a drunken brawl.

We have the prettiest town in West Virginia and I shudder to think of these things happening here again.

A town official has told me that they are unable to do anything about the flagrant bootlegging in town and that the bootleg liquor comes from Virginia so that a liquor store here would not only cut out the bootlegging but the State would get liquor revenue now going to Virginia. This admission of the impotency of our local law enforcement agencies is a sad thing. But—this is also a State problem and whenever local of-

Since the above have been information against a liquor bootlegging. This is simply a matter of making an stamp out the terrors. At the might check on places in town to minors and violations of to get a few youngsters. Let monious with our right hand the illegal do

On the second count in favor of the store it seems silly to me to expect a liquor store here to sell $250,000 to $300,000 worth of booze to leave 2% of it here

No doubt two or three persons would be employed here in a liquor store. It would also give employment to more policemen and help out the Justices of the Peace.

anquish because some of his friends think he is wrong. How-
